

CALGARY CATHOLIC SCHOOL DISTRICT

February 17, 2016

Dear Parents and Residents of the upcoming south Cranston Catholic School community;

We are pleased to announce the appointment of the new principal for Calgary Catholic School District's new school in south Cranston. Ms. Marni Harrigan, currently serving as Principal of Madeleine d'Houet School has been appointed to the position of Principal of the new Cranston school. This appointment was based on the "School Administration: Qualities, Attributes and Characteristics" profile developed at the parent public participation session on October 13, 2015.

The process to determine the name of our new Catholic school has begun. Watch for opportunities through surveys at Christ the King School and Blessed Cardinal Newman School, as well as at St. Albert the Great Parish in the near future to voice your opinion on potential names for the new school.

Regarding student registrations for next year, in our update letter on February 8 we made a commitment to survey parents. Please watch for these letters and return them to the school in a timely manner so that we might continue the work of preparing for our new school opening.

Finally, a reminder to all future parents and students to keep up to date on school developments through the Calgary Catholic School District website at <http://www.cssd.ab.ca/schools/cranston>.

Sincerely,

Mike Ross
Superintendent, Area D Schools
